At GE Aerospace, we believe the world works better when it flies. As a world-leading provider of jet engines, components, and integrated systems for commercial and military aircraft, our substantial investment in research and development keeps us looking ahead.

We are committed to protecting our people and the communities in which we operate through driving environmental, health and safety (“EHS”) excellence. Our approach includes implementing strong EHS programs and standards globally, reducing our EHS risks, and complying with all applicable EHS laws. Our commitment to EHS applies to everything we do.
